

Kindergarten — The December Student of the Month is Leah Ervans. Leah Ervans shows great responsibility each day in our classroom. She does a great job of turning in her folder each morning without being reminded. She is very responsible for her belongings and encourages others to be responsible, as well. Leah is also working on accepting responsibility for her actions and is showing growth in that area. Great job, Leah! Thank you for being a wonderful example of someone who shows responsibility in our classroom. ~Mrs. Otterbein

Kindergarten — Mrs. Medrano's student of the month is Peter Yacks. Being responsible? In Kindergarten? Yes! This month, I've talked a lot about being responsible for your own actions when you've done wrong, as well as being a responsible citizen of our classroom that fulfills their job and takes care of their surroundings. I am proud to say that Peter is a responsible student in our class! I notice that he always takes care of his space, helps others, accepts responsibility when I ask for help, and even accepts responsibility when he's made a mistake. Thank you, Peter! Keep up the great work and you'll go far! ~Mrs. Medrano

1st Grade—Mrs. Wallace's December Student of the Month is Collin Hershiser. Collin shows responsibility by always turning in his completed homework on time. He also faithfully brings his sight word cards to school and practices his sight words at home. Not only does Collin show academic responsibility, but he also takes responsibility for his actions. ~Mrs. Wallace

1st Grade — In Mrs. Draheim's class Molly Henthorne is the Student of the Month for Responsibility. Molly is a hard worker and a great listener. She is always on task and is a great role model for other students. I appreciate her hard work in every subject. Keep up the great work, Molly! ~Mrs. Draheim

2nd Grade— Weston Tucker is Mrs. Fowler's Student of the Month for December. Weston is a very responsible student. He remembers to bring everything to school that he needs for the day. He works hard throughout the day to make sure that his work is completed on time and provides good, quality work. Weston remembers to take home the things that he needs to complete his homework and has it done on a daily basis. Keep up the good work! ~Mrs. Fowler

2/3 Grade—Mrs. Hiltbrunner's Student of the Month for December is Abigale Holbrook. Abby shows responsibility by being a leader in the class and always is willing to assist other students as well as setting an example by getting her work done on her own. ~Mrs. Hiltbrunner

3rd—. She is extremely responsible. Her work is always turned in neatly and on time. She works diligently to keep her space clean around her both in and out of the classroom. She also takes pride in completing her tasks efficiently and looking to see if others around her could use a boost. She uses words in a kind way to encourage all students everyday. K is a great role model of a responsible student on a daily basis. ~Mrs. Russell

4th Grade — My choice for December's student of the month, responsibility, is Samara Bowers. Samara is a very responsible student. She understands what is expected of her and she takes action without argument. Samara is responsible for getting her work done and studying for tests. Samara is also responsible during social times and is well mannered and respectful beyond her years. For these reasons and many other I had to pick Samara for student of the month. ~Mr. Draheim

5th— The 5th Grade Student of the month is Tim Favreau. Tim always completes daily assignments in a timely manner on time and well done. Tim stays focused on the task at hand and uses his time constructively. He consistently uses his best effort on a daily basis. Tim is a self motivated worker and a role model to his peers! ~Mr. Trumble

6th —Student of the month for December in the sixth grade is Ciarra Elliston. Ciarra shows responsibility through her daily work being done on time and turned in. I have never had to ask her where an assignment is or if it was complete. Ciarra is a student that is on task, focused and tries to do the right thing. She is friendly to her other classmates and myself. She is eager to volunteer or help others and shows good citizenship on a daily basis. ~Mrs. Fix

7th/8th—Our 7th/8th Student of the month is Avery Mason. Avery is a very hard worker who always has her work complete and on time. Bovines are her friends. She loves to read and has a passion for science and robotics. When Avery completes her college career she wants to be a robotic engineer. ~Mrs. Kuenzer
